

Choice of Final Form

There will be two types of Final Examinations available for this course:

- One will cover only the material that the other exams did not cover. Time allowed for completion of this exam will be one hour. Essentially, it is a third exam just like the two that have already happened.
- The other will be a comprehensive exam, with questions selected from topics covered during the whole semester. Three hours will be allowed for completion of this exam.

Both exams will be given during the standard final examination time for the course: Thursday, May 9, 12:00 – 3:00pm.

Each student may individually choose which exam they wish to take. Please sign under the appropriate statement below.

Hey, Dr. McLean:

I'm pretty satisfied with how well I did on the first two exams. Sign me up for the short version of the final exam. I understand that the final will have the same weight as the other exams in calculating my course grade (12.7% for each exam, to be specific). I promise to use the extra study time in constructive ways (like maybe studying for my other finals, or learning to play the ocarina).

Hey, Dr. McLean

I'm sure that I could do better than I did on the first two exams. I understand the material from the beginning of the class much more clearly now. Maybe it's because of using the chips in lab.

Anyhow, sign me up for the long version of the final exam. I understand that in calculating my course grade, the final will carry more weight than the other exams. To be specific, the mid-term exams will be worth 11% each, while the final will be worth 16%.
